q3 content roadmap

Prepared by: content + growth + product

Internal only draft v3 maybe final overview Q3 focus is mostly around continuing momentum from Galaxy Burn while trying not to become “only the sci-fi app”.

We need:

- stronger retention outside one franchise
- more localized content
- faster releases
- shorter production timelines
- better creator integrations

Biggest goal is scaling content without killing production quality.

current priorities ### high priority

- Galaxy Burn season continuation planning
- more APAC-focused releases
- creator collab content
- weekly episode drops
- subtitle quality improvements

medium priority

- fantasy expansion
- documentary experiments
- interactive content testing

low priority

- reality content refresh
 - desktop-exclusive experiments

planned releases

title	genre	target region	expected release
Galaxy Burn: Frontier	Sci-Fi	APAC	July
Neon Streets	Cyberpunk	Global	August
HarborLine S2	Drama	Europe	Sept
Last Orbit	Sci-Fi	APAC	Sept
Echo Division	Thriller	NA	TBD maybe

Dates still moving around depending on post-production.

content performance trends Things currently working:

- serialized sci-fi
- short episodes
- strong cliffhangers
- creator-driven hype
- memeable scenes honestly

Things underperforming:

- long documentaries
 - generic action movies
 - reality content
 - desktop-first engagement

audience behavior notes Analytics keeps showing:

- mobile users binge more often
- subtitle users retain better
- late-night viewers watch longer sessions
- shorter episodes complete more often

There's also a noticeable spike in:

- fan edits
- reaction clips
- theory discussions
- after episode drops.

APAC focus APAC still driving most growth.

Planned investments:

- Korean productions
- anime partnerships
- regional creator collabs
- dubbed versions faster after launch
- more mobile-focused promos

India + Indonesia still strongest growth regions rn.

	S2		review stage

Some timelines slipped because localization teams got overloaded during Q2 releases.

localization Subtitle complaints dropped after the last update but still not fully fixed.

Current problems:

- delayed subtitle uploads
- occasional sync issues
- inconsistent translations between episodes

Need:

- better QA
- faster subtitle turnaround

- more regional reviewers

One Indonesian creator specifically called out subtitle quality during a livestream so product team escalated it.

creator integrations Planned experiments:

- creator watch parties
- episode reaction campaigns
- post-episode livestreams
- fan theory contests

Growth team thinks community engagement is driving retention almost as much as the actual platform now.

which is slightly terrifying honestly.

release strategy Product + content teams leaning toward:

- weekly releases
instead of:
- full season dumps

Reason:

- keeps engagement active longer
- improves creator discussion cycles
- increases social traffic consistency
- helps retention

Netflix-style full drops still work sometimes but weekly seems better for us rn.

internal notes TODO before external strategy deck:

- remove unfinished budget table
 - confirm Neon Streets release timing
 - verify LATAM localization vendor
 - fix duplicated roadmap section below

roadmap section (duplicate from earlier export maybe) Planned priorities:

- sci-fi expansion
- creator collabs
- subtitle improvements
- mobile engagement
- APAC growth

yeah this section somehow got duplicated during export.

risks ### franchise dependence Biggest concern internally: too much growth depends on Galaxy Burn rn.

Need at least:

- 2 more strong recurring franchises
 - better genre diversity
 - stronger casual-viewer retention

production scaling Problems showing up:

- editors overloaded
- subtitle QA bottlenecks
- rendering delays
- infra costs increasing from creator uploads

One export/render queue failed for almost 3 hrs during finale week.

recommendation system alignment Content + product teams trying to improve:

- homepage personalization
- post-episode recommendations
- onboarding recommendations
- cross-genre discovery

Search relevance feedback still mixed.

Support tickets mentioning:

- "same recommendations repeating"
 - "homepage too sci-fi heavy"

operational concerns Things still messy internally:

- inconsistent naming across dashboards
- campaign tracking overlap
- duplicated metadata in exports
- partial analytics gaps during traffic spikes

Analytics engineering team already aware.

q3 targets Main targets:

1. keep retention above 70%
 2. reduce subtitle complaints
 3. launch 2 successful new originals
 4. improve Europe engagement
 5. reduce dependency on one franchise

final comments Q2 growth was much bigger than expected and the platform is scaling faster than some internal systems were originally designed for.

Main opportunities:

- creator ecosystems
- mobile-first engagement
- serialized content
- regional expansion

Main risks:

- operational scaling
- franchise dependence
- localization quality

- reporting consistency
